Smorgasbord Attracts Large Crowd

Over 200 senior citizens attended the free smorgasbord luncheon given by the City Association and Model Cities Saturday at the Association's club house, 2316 South Yakima Avenue.

Purpose of the luncheon was to acquaint senior citizens from the central area with the Senior Citizen Center to be opened at the club house, to describe the programs and services that will be offered, and to obtain information as to the type of programs the senior citizens want.

Principal speakers to the multiracial group were Mayor Gordon Johnston and Frank Russell, Model Cities director. Both spoke of the need for senior citizen involvement in worthwhile community activities and of the responsibility of the city toward senior citizens. Russell said that the purpose of Model Cities programs must be geared toward this end.

He stated, further, that if the senior citizens of the area want a senior center that Model Cities will support the program.

Entertainment was provided by the Spiritual Six, the Eligibles from the American Conservatory of Music, Mrs. Louis Born, folk singer, and Miss Christie Atchison, dramatist. Mrs. Anne Pearl Brown was mistress of ceremonies.

Minority Concerns Task Force Hears Fire Dept. Hiring Plan

The Tacoma Fire Department has decided to initiate a continuous minority hiring program, the Minority Concerns Task Force was informed by the Department at a meeting Wednesday morning.

Lieutenant Otis who represented the presently all-white Department told Task Force members that the Department is "very concerned" about the inequities in hiring minority group members.

He said the Fire Department is replacing its past policy of "let Joe do it" as to the inequities the Department knew existed but did nothing until now to resolve.

First step will be to hire a minority fire fighter recruiter who will be a minority member whose job will be to recruit, help train and aid minority trainees through the training period and after they become regulars.

Starting salary is $760 a month with a $925 maximum after three and a half years in the Department.

Asked how long the recruiting program will last, Otis said, "Until the time comes when the program is no longer needed."

At the same meeting Chairman Jim Walton sent to a committee for review a Washington State Oiler trainee affirmative action program for heavy equipment presented by R. L. Switzer of the U. S. Department of Labor and Tacoma City Councilman Harold Moss who helped put the program together. Approximately $2,200 will be approved for the program after it receives the endorsement of the minority community.

Although the trainee oiler program is set up to handle 30 minority trainees it does not contain any provisions for the hiring of minority journeymen who are presently unemployed.

In addition to the 500 hours oiler training 75 hours of actual training on heavy equipment after the oiler trainee becomes a journeyman was one of the more enlightening provisions of the program.

The Task Force could not give then-and-there approval to the training program until it includes inputs from the minority community.

The Task Force will give its decision on endorsement at next Wednesday's meeting May 26.

INSURANCE PROBLEMS NOTED

By DICK SONNTAG

Norm Taylor, deputy state insurance commissioner, spoke recently to the Tacoma Citizens' Political Interest Club, meeting at the Esquire Restaurant. Taylor outlined the functions of the office of the insurance commissioner and explained how the staff functioned. He spoke mainly about how the consumer protection department looks out for us little guys. Taylor was questioned about discrimination in the insurance business by Ree Hutchine, Tacoma Human Relations director, and several others.

Roy Johnson, director of the Fair Plan Insurance program also spoke to the Club and answered question. This plan provides low cost insurance to people who can't get insurance for property because of "high risk".

Again, I was disappointed in the turnout of local people. Bob White and his club put on informative, neighborhood meetings which serve to bring government officials to the community where we can meet with them and question them on a face to face basis.

NOTE: Former City Manager Marshall McCormick died last Saturday at a local hospital. His voice was a strong one in representing the people and taking care of problems. McCormick, one of the finest attorneys in Tacoma history, will be missed.

NOTE: Radio personality Dick Weeks is celebrating his 22nd anniversary with radio this week. His "Personal Choice" program is heard five days a week, 10 a.m. to noon, on KTNT.

NOTE: The Hilltop Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning a carnival and merchandise fair to be held at Cheney Stadium June 8 through 12 featuring all kinds of special events. Good luck, Guys.

NOTE: Chief Lenart, longtime boss of the local Coast Guard cutter, has a new job. He is now captain of Tacoma's Harbor Queen, 2315 Ruston Way.

NOTE: Be a registered voter, it's the American Way.

Consumer Credit Counseling Service

The Consumer Credit Counseling Service of Tacoma-Pierce County, Inc., is a non-profit community service agency which was set up by the merchants and credit grantors of this area to help people solve their debt problems and avoid bankruptcy.

The agency is based on a model developed by the National Foundation for Consumer Credit, Washington, D.C. and is operated in conjunction with the foundation and over 100 other CCCS organizations across the United States and Canada.

CCCS offers advisory service where individuals and families may obtain advice and counselling about buying on credit, budgeting their incomes and handling credit problems. The agency also designs and coordinates pro-rate repayment plans for over-extended indebtedness.

How it works...

1. A client calls the office, referred by a credit or, a social agency, labor organization, en employer, or an individuals.

2. An appointment is set up for an interview with one of the counselors and the client is told what items to bring in, such as pay stubs, payment books and other supporting data.

3. At the interview, complete details of the plan are given and an application and financial statement are taken. The counselor discusses the situation, analyzes the problems and recommends a solution at that time if possible. There is no charge for this counseling.

4. The creditors are notified of the application. At the time, unpaid balances and terms are verified.

In some cases, no further action is needed. Where monthly obligations exceed income available for deb ts, a plan can often be made with creditors to have payments reduced by spreading them over a longer period of time. Since under such a plan each creditor receives monthly payments proportionate to his share of the total amount owed, this is commonly known as "pro-rating". When this is indicated the creditors are contacted again.

Pro-rating payments are handled through the CCCS office. The funds will be paid by the client and be deposited in a trustee account. On the agreed disbursement date, the agency makes out a check to each of the creditors. The client pays a nominal set-up charge and a small monthly charge to cover expenses, stationery, etc..

REV. E.S. BRAZILL REPORTS ON THE INSPIRING AMERICAN BAPTIST CONVENTION

The Convention Hall auditorium in Minneapolis, Minnesota was the site of the well attended 64th Annual Session of the American Baptist Convention held last week.

Their theme for this session was Let Us Break Bread Together.

The convention officially opened May 12 but there was an excellent preconvention musical of black clergymen held on the 11th of May at the Zion Baptist Church in the same city.

The convention was a very effective and aspiring one throughout the week with all of the exciting workshops, caucuses, speakers and so on.

The Friday morning speaker at the Convention was the dynamic Rev. Jesse Jackson who among other outstanding accomplishments and movements is the organizer of Operation Bread Basket in Chicago, Illinois.

His subject was, A Vision of God. Where there is no vision people will perish. It was very helpful and inspiring.

The evening speaker was another young black minister who grew up in Harlem, New York amidst great trials and tribulation, the Reverend Tom Skinner. He spoke on the liberation of black people. His life and his awareness of the life of others moved him to dedicate his life and ministry toward the liberation of black people. His message was very moving.

Reverend Brazill went on to report other highlighting points that took place at the convention. Another one was the election of Mrs. Ruth Rohlfs of Seattle, Washington. She is the fifth woman to be elected in its 80 years of existence. She will serve for a year. The outgoing president is Reverend Doctor Frederickson of Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

The American Baptist Convention also expanded its membership to southern states at this session. There was a collection delegation, 134, of Baptist ministers representing churches from the south in attendance who showed their sincere interest in becoming members of that Convention. They were voted upon and accepted and Rev. E. D. Hicks, staff member of the Home Mission Society, was appointed executive minister of the Southern group to act as a liason between the two groups.

Reverend Brazil also stated that the convention was well attended by black clergymen. One hundred of the 134 delegates from the southern states were black.

In attendance from our Pacific Northwest were the Rev. Robert H. Davis, pastor of Bethlehem Baptist Church, of course, Rev. E. S. Brazill, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church, Rev. O. A. Lilly of Bremerton, Washington, Rev. B. A. Taylor, president of the North Pacific Convention and pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church in Seattle, Rev. Samuel McKinzy, pastor of Mount Zion Baptist Church and Rev. E. W. Bratton of Peoples Institutional Baptist Church, both of Seattle, Washington.

As previously stated, black ministers were well represented at the convention and they were also elected to key committees of the convention.

From our area, the Rev. B. A. Taylor was elected to the nominating committee and Rev. Samuel McKimey to the Caucus of black clergymen.

Reverend Brazill was elated about the convention accomplishments and the meaningful inspirations he received by attending.

He is back home now, ready to continue his worthwile contributions to our community.

Survey Community Opinion

Nearly 3,000 persons completed the questionaires in late January, and a detailed statistical analysis of the opinions was done by Richard Stiles, research coordinater for the district and a member of the steering committee.

Stiles reported that the data received indicates that there is strong agrement in Tacoma on 19 of the 48 scaled response items, and strong disagreement with eight.

Stiles said that in terms of needs the community sample showed the strongest agreement with giving students information on the dangers of drug abuse, sex education and morality and social values. Sex education for junior and senior high students got more support than for elementary children, though both items were in the top group.

The report showed that the community feels schools should maintain control of students. There was strong support for dress and grooming rules for students. However, this was tempered by agreement that such rules should be developed by a representative group of students, parents, teachers and administrators.

Strong agreement was also shown for educational programs which would take students into the community, for providing special services for all types of handicapped students, and for trying out and evaluating new methods of teaching.

The community sample also strongly supported a statement about the need for the use of a few basic school building plans.

The sample disagreed with providing a 12-month school program, for providing programs for three- and four-year olds, for free hot lunches for all students, for an open campus policy in high schools.

The strongest disagreement was on the item, "If more than 40 per cent of the students in a school are of a minority race, the school district should bus students to other schools."

About two-thirds of all those filling out the questionaires were women. The typical respondent is 44, has 12.7 years of schooling and has lived in the school district 23 years.

Soulful Dance

The Afro-ettes will present a variety show Sunday, May 23 from 3 to 5 p.m. at the City Association Clubhouse 2316 South Yakima.

The program will include song-dance routines, poems and modeling by the members. Refreshment will be served by Mdse: Vincent Hughes, Robert Simmons, Edward Singleton, and Mrs. Walter Wells.

Mrs. Jesse Bonner, Club adviser, and Mrs. Del Davis will co-host and commentate the afternoon.

Human Relations Commission Lists Valuable Principles

Evaluations & Predictions

By REE HUTCHINE
Executive Director
Human Rights Commission

For a period of approximately three years the City of Tacoma has gone through changes of significant interest to its citizens, among them the passage of various city ordinances and resolutions pertaining to the improvement of the physical state of the city including improvement of the lifestyle of the less fortunate citizens.

One of the most recent changes was the initial approach to improvement of the economical condition of minority citizens through their demand for equal employment in city government, county, and equal representation on all boards, which is necessary to give the disadvantaged citizens the dignity and confidence, and the pride that should be enjoyed by all Tacoma citizens. This demand has created much controversy, particularly among the more affluent and secured citizens of Tacoma to include perpetuation of scare tactics, half truth and race hatred.

The question of equal opportunity for all citizens has sparked many interpretations. It is well to remember that a carpenter without the tools to do the job is not considered to be equally prepared as another carpenter who possesses the tools to do the job.

The term "disadvantaged" has been defined by Webster's dictionary as unfavorable, inferior, prejudicial conditions. This is particularly true with the Black Americans who are faced with today's sophisticated society, automation and technology. There are five basic areas that are contributory to the "disadvantaged" American":

(1) Educationally deprived, (2) economically deprived, (3) socially disadvantaged, (4) ethnically disadvantaged, (5) intellectually handicapped.

When we speak of the educationally deprived, we are speaking of those persons who ranked in the bottom one-third of their class while enrolled in school and classified as slow learners because of academic problems such as poor reading abilities or alienation from school environment.

When we speak of economically deprived, we are speaking of those persons with insufficient family income to satisfy basic needs in society.

When we speak of socially disadvantaged, we are speaking of those persons with problems stemming from environmental situations, parental neglect, and inability to adjust to demands of society, as a whole.

When we speak of the intellectually handicapped, we are speaking of those persons with low mental capacities and lack of ability to cope with training programs geared to the average and above-average employee, but not including those with mental health problems requiring special care.

These are by no means all of the segments or classification of the disadvantaged. I selected those five because of my day to day contact with the world mentioned in the above five categories. These five basic categories were adopted by the Ohio State University in 1966 during the time that the University was conducting a national survey of Vocational Education Program of students with special needs.

The need for more consideration, sensitivity and respect for our fellow man exist today more so than ever before. This is particularly true in terms of affording equality under our United States Constitution for all the people and by all the people.

Abraham Lincoln once wrote that:
You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong. You cannot help the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred. You cannot help the poor by discouraging the rich. You cannot establish sound security by spending more than you earn. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence. You cannot help men permanetly by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves.

It is hoped that this article will serve as an inspiration and guideline to channel your thinking in the direction of compassion and understanding of the disadvantaged citizens who have been left out of the main stream of our society and are crying out and demanding to be heard and also included in the prosperities of our prosperous America.

DICK GREGORY DEMANDS BOYCOTTS TO STOP WAR IN ASIA

Dick Gregory, world known comedian and advocate of an end to U. S. fighting of the war in Asia, urged boycotts to get the nation out of the Asian conflict when he spoke at Paficic Lutheran University.

He told the largely student audience that America is worth saving, even at the price of a young person offending his parents to do so by voicing his own pre-adult opinion.

Gregory said youthful antiwar demonstrators, 7,000 of whom were arrested for protesting the war, are the "new niggers" who have the courage to protest and "are doing more for peace and civil rights than us old niggers".

Day Care Center Marks Young Child Week

PUBLIC LIBRARY
Tacoma, Wash.

May 16-22 has been designated as "The Week of the Young Child" to spotlight the importance of young children in our society. As Alexander Pope, the eighteenth century English author observed, "The child is the father of the man."

In view of the week's observances, the Tacoma FACTS asked the Community Day Care Center for a description of its aims and activities. This is what we received:

"Tacoma's Hilltop Community Day Care Center gives to parents who love their children but must work, a place that is special. Here are friends who enjoy the same kind of things (even the furniture, equipment and play materials are made in a special size). The staff and volunteers look forward to seeing their students each day. They love to listen and talk to the children as they play and help each establish reasonable limits in his behaviour. The child here develops necessary self discipline, obtains self confidence and an understanding of himself which makes for a good feeling within himself.

"In his 'own size world' a sense of belonging and security engulfs the child. These efforts of the child and staff are not without some small failures and frustrations, yet each encounters like this lets the child appreciate his successful achievements and they become enriched with confidence and happiness.

"The center provides fun filled experiences for building independence of the child. Equipment in 'The Little World' is climbing apparatus, large boxes and blocks which aid the development of large muscles and coordination. Smaller blocks, beads, puzzles, scissors, and crayons encourages finer coordination and small muscle growth. The low washroom equipment makes the practice of personal hygiene easier to accomplish."

At the moment enrollment is around 1971.
--JOHN EVANS.

Youth Opportunity Job Campaign

Over 6,000 high school and college youths in Pierce County are expecting to be seeking summer employment, according to Arnold A. Hirsekorn, Pierce area director of the Employment Security Department.

Finding a summer job is extremely important to these young people.

For many it will be the only way to help finance their education this fall. Many others will not be returning to school and will need permanent work to become independent, constructive citizens.

Given the opportunity, a young person can be an excellent worker and a definite asset to any organization. All private employers, labor unions, governmental agencies, church and civil groups are urged to cooperate providing jobs for youth. To place a job order contact the Washington State Employment Security Department, telephones 593 2495 or 593 2496.
